Abstract

To an astronomical probability, we demonstrate that the prime motive in history is the LORD, with profound modern geopolitical implications. Please note this paper consists of scholarly research written as entertainment, a la Dante's Divine Comedy.

1 Overview

The following lists of anagrams reflect the intersection of possibility and the author's judgement, constructing linguistic graph clusters of significance. Self-contained anagrams are tighter than multidimensional manifolds, meaning establishing limits on and approximating their associated probabilities is algebraic. Constructed manually, these lists are imperfect, approximation itself being optimal in this context. Yet we see truth through glass.

10 Quotations

"I am the LORD, and there is no other, The One forming light and creating darkness, Causing well-being and creating calamity; I am the LORD who does all these." (Isaiah 45:6-7)

"So many peoples and mighty nations will come to seek the LORD of hosts in Jerusalem and to entreat the favor of the LORD."

"Thus says the LORD of hosts, 'In those days ten men from all the nations will grasp the garment of a Jew saying, "Let us go with you, for we have heard that God is with you."' (Zechariah 8:22-23)

[LOGICIAN] The voice of the LORD breaks the cedars; Yes, the LORD breaks in pieces the cedars of Lebanon. (Psalm 29:5)

The LORD possessed me at the beginning of His way, Before His works of old. From everlasting I was established (Proverbs 8:22-23)

For He is coming to judge the earth. (1 Chronicles 16:33)

11 Conclusions

We have demonstrated the LORD'S omnipresence. This verifies the Taoist parable that not knowing is true knowledge, and the First Commandment that idolatry falls far short of divinity. We anticipate these patterns to be maintained across languages around the world, a fertile area of further inquiry.
